TWO EXAMPLES.

Bayless Hanna's Rapture and Delight-Gorgeous Array of Blue Cloth, Stik Cordage and Brass Buttons From the Golden Gate.

dpecial to the Sentinel. WASHINGTON, May 9 .- An enthusiastic fever has developed in the mind of Bayless Hanna regarding the Persian mission. Reading and thought upon the subject has inspired him with high hopes, and he would exchange it for no other appointment. An American Minister who preceded Mr. Hanna had an interesting experience, and the rapturous recep-ion by that people caused his heart to swell with pride "for his own, his mative land." A vast number of natives, with music and banners and the enthusiasm of a political torch-light procession, was awaiting his arrival on the seasbore when the ship came in. Through the waste and over the mountains he was borne like royalty in a sedan chair to the capital. This gained, the gates opened as if on hinges of gold, revealing a spectacle of festivity, evidenced by flags flying, drums beating, troops marching, a ruler and court in waiting, and the glare of barbaric joy everywhere. The delighted Minister lost no time in cabling home that the honors due a king on his birthday had been awarded a representative American, and more exquisite gladness has seldom been known. A few days later a bill was made out for $8 000 by the Persian authorities and sent to this Government to meet the expense of this rare and radiant occasion. It was paid, but with instructions that this sort of thing must not be repeated.

Mr. Hanna is learning his lesson and will take a turn through the gun factories of New England before leaving for his post of duty. All that improved fire-arms and song and the miscellaneous accomplishments that must grow out of close relations with the Republic that the American Minister under the present administration can do for that people Mr. Hanna will provide. Tom Ryan, in the rude Pacific, astride a seal heading for the Aurora Bore-allis, is not happier than the gentleman from the Wabash country on the eve of his departure for the East-the land of the camel, the mild-eyed gazelle, the Circassian beauty and Persian rugs. He will meet proffered hospitalities

There are many of those State Militia fellows who came on to do the pomp and circumstances of war at the inauguration here. Yet, when they arrived, nature was locked in the icy emorace of bitter winter, and now the leaves are out, the birds are singing, the lawn-mower is at workspring, full of promise, is well advanced. John P. Iribh, of all the orators I ever heard, is one of the most elequent-once of Iowa, now of the Pacific Stope-has told from every stump in Indiana that if a Democrat was elected he would come to Washington, if he had to walk. Not long sgounder very peculiar circumstances, he became a member of the San Francisco Guards, with the rank of Colonel. He was a little bit, no doubtonly a little bit-ambitious for a military title. It sounds nice out West as well as down South, in politics especially. The San Francisco Guards voted to witness the inauguration of a Democratic President in a body, in uniform, on horseback and in line. John P. Irish, a Colonel, was in for it; to falter would have been treason to his adopted city. He purchased a uniform, a miracle of splendor, and a more gergeous array of blue cloth, silk cordage and brass buttons, never signalized a warrior's grandeur. Had he come from the Atlantic, he might have been mistaken for a sun-burst, where Phoebus scatters golden glories from the balconies of the orient to an awakened world.

"I don't know you, ejaculated a Treasury girl, enraptured to unconsciousness, but you are certainly the biggest General on earth. Early and before the pomp of his presence was fully understood, Colonel Irish moved resplendently along the street to the house of an old friend. Ringing, the deer opened and he was bid to enter by a servant. Two children, frightened to tears, scampered to the parents' chamber. "Pa, pa," sobbed a little four-year old girl, "something

"Who is it dear? Don't be afraid. Papa won't let anything hurt his darlings'

"No it aint," was the correction of a brother, older and wiser by three years, "it's only a man that wants to kill somebody."

"I don't know, but I think it is God."

But on the day of the inauguration the achieve- nesses: ments of Colonel Irish were less brilliant. While the procession was moving the steed assigned to him, heard a bell and stopped-stood still as if in obedience to an executive prerogative. No application of steel spurs, or rawhide, could urge the undutiful beast forward, until he heard two bells. The mistake had been made of giving the officer a street car horse. An exchange was promptly made with a less conspicuous man, but even this was equally unfortunate. Passing certain business places on the thoroughfare, despite his rider, the animal would execute a half curve, and backing up to the sidewalk, stand to be unloaded. This animal for long years had been trained to the dray; and so Dan Lamott, who views every thing with a critic's eye, got to suspicion that Col onel Irish, of California, who, reared upon a farm, had broken many a colt, was "Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Horse" in disautse.

"On what a slender thread

Hangs such immortal things." He is still about Willard's, having laid aside his electrical locomotive, headlight, raiment, and dressed in a civilized suit like the one worn by Red Cloud, growing daily. It is surmised, in administrative favor. Being of the number of those that for twenty years have fed on husks and elm bark, while the other fellows were fattening or cleaned oats, he enjoys each decapitation infinitely. But is every character of splendor power'ess to effect our President? If this array of harness, title and imposing presence from the Golden Gate applies in vain, what is a plain, blunt man from the cornfields of Indiana to expect?

Land Commissioner Sparks Arrested on a

Charge of Assault. WASHINGTON, May 9 .- Colonel Deahna, formerly Collector for Alaska, and for the last two years Special Timber Agent of the Land Office at Carson City, Nev., to-day swore out a warrant in the Police Court for the arrest of Commissioner Sparks, of the Land Office. on a charge of personal assault. Colonel Deahna's version of the affair is that he called upon the Commissioner to day to secure a settlement of his accounts as special agent, which had been suspended with all accounts of other agents pending an investigation by the Commissioner. He was on leave of absence, and he told the Commissioner that he was in financial distress and asked to have his accounts passed, so that he might get his cay which had been withheld for several months. The Commissioner impatiently exclaimed that he had no time to look into individual cases and ordered the Colonel out of the room. The Colonel protested against this treatment, when, he says, the Commissioner sprang up, seized him by the throat, tore the buttons off his coat, and called loudly upon the messengers to eject him. The Colonel was ejected, and went immediately to the Police Court and obtained his warrant. He says that he carried a loaded cane in his hand with which he could have easily disabled the Commissioner, but refrained from striking him out of consideration for his family.

AN INDIGNANT JURY.

The Sheriff of Cook County Denounced for the Part the Militia Took in the Lemont Affair.

LEMONT, Ills., May 9 .- The Coroner's jury, composed of citizens of Lemont, has rendered the following supplemental verdict in connection with their investigation as to the death of the men killed in the riot last Monday: "We, the jury, find from the evidence before us that we are unable to determine what particular soldier or officer in the State militia fired the identical shots which killed Jacob Kujana, Andrew Stelter and Stephen Polus. We further find that the Sheriff of Cook County was hasty in sending the troops in our midst without previous warning and without asking the assistance of the town authorities to assist them in dispersing the men, women and children. We further find that the Sheriff of Cook County should have asked the proper town officers to disperse all crowds of people in the streets; that at the time of the shooting in the streets there was a company gathered in the streets of men, women and children and merchants of the town: that said crowd gathered there more for the purpose of curiosity to see the soi-diers, and that the officers in command of the soldiers should have used more discretion before firing into the crowds of people gathered and especially the soldiers clubbing with swords and bayonets our citizens on the street and before their own doorsteps." Corner Hertz received the fol-lowing dispatch from Governor Oglesby in reference to soldiers appearing at the inquest as wit-

COTTON CROP PROSPECTS.

The Cotton Crop Report for the District of Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 9 .- The cotton crop report for the Memphis district, which embraces West Tennessee, North Arkansas, North Mississippi and North Alabama, to be issued to morrow by Messrs. Hill, Fontaine & Co., will say: "As will be seen from the responses to 296 letters of inquiry sent out April 27, there will be an increased acreage planted in cotton in this district of 4% per cent. as compared with last year. The acreage planted in corn also shows an increase of 1% per cent. The weather has in the main been favorable for planting purposes. Arkansas is the only section where too much wet weather is complained of. The spring has been somewhat backward, but farmers have had their lands in good condition, and planting throughout the district is nearly completed. The season opens with most favorable prospects. Labor is plentiful and is reported as working well. Under these conditions, with favorable seasons, the outlook is quite promising to the planter. Aggregate 296 responses. Acreage: One hundred and sixty-eight report an increased acreage in cotton as compared with last year; twenty-two report a decrease, and 106 about the same: average increase, 41/2 per cent. MRS. LAING THE WIFE OF MR. FISH Why the Fact of Marriage Was Kept Secret-Known to Her Family.

CLEVELAND, May 9 .- A dispatch to the Plaindealer, from Sandusky, says that Frank A. Lavman, the editor of the Evening Journal, of this city, gave a statement concerning the account of the death of Mrs. Sallie Reber Laing, which originated in Cleveland and was thence telegraphed to papers throughout the country. Mr. Layman says:

"Regarding the manner and cause of Mrs. Laing's death I am prepared to denounce the published statement as false in great part, if not in whole. The article in question contains much truth, but more that is in inaccurate. The account is strictly true until it touches upon her life subsequent to the death of her first husband, Mr. Laing. At that point the inaccuracies begin. Some months after that event Mr. James D. Fish, at that time known as a millionaire banker, began paying her his addresses, which ended in May, 1884, about the time he became involved in his financial difficulties, in a private marriage, which, in order to escape the notoriety that would ensue, she stipulated should be kept secret until such time as he was free again. These troubles, which at first appeared temporary, became more harrassing as time went by, and she still insisted upon her original stipulation and did to the end of her death, which was as sudden and unexpected to her friends as it was to berself. The issue of this marriage with Mr. Fish was a daughter born on February 24, at a atladt, N. J., and which is now with friends of Mr. Fish under his care and direction.

The mother had almost entirely recovered from the effect of child birth, when she was attacked with an old stomach trouble that was chronic in her case, and yielding to a morbid appetite for certain articles of diet that had been expressly forbidden her, she ate inordinately and died in tew hours, on the night of March 10 Her mar cisge to Mr. Fish has been known to her family since last summer, but for the reasons stated already which were satisfactory alike to her and them, it was never made public, and has no been published since her death, because of the attendant circumstances, and of her express request to that effect. In justice to Mr. Fisb. I would and that he has been anxious from the first to reveal the marriage and to be absolved by the family from secreey. This permission will be given to-

Another Statement for the Deceased's

Family. SANDUSKY, O., May 9.- There have been some additional developments here in the Laing-Fish sensation that may tend to throw more light upon the unfortunate affair and disperse whatever clouds of doubt may yet hover over the good name of the dead artiste. Mr. Frank Layman, editor of the Evening Journal and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Laing, or Mrs. Fish, as she must now be known. whose statement was telegraphed last night, makes the following additional statement: I was apprised by telegraph from New York that Mr. Fish had denied in the morning papers my statement of vesterday that he and Mrs. Laing had been previously married during May-to ba exact, on May 20, 1881-but did not credit the assertion. no matter what papers made it. Mr. Fish having frequently related the particulars and circumstances of their marriage to me, and being a ware. moreover, that I am in possession of incontestable proof of the same. However, I immediacely wired him the story, asking him if he did deny the marriage, and in reply received the following: 'I do not deny it, and shall not do so Subsequently, this evening, I was in receipt of a letter from him, written yesterday noon, requesting m to state, if I had not already done so that Mr. Fish and Sa'lle were privately married on the 20th of May, 1884 and that I had the evi dence of it in my po session. I would state further that the relations between Mr. Fish and the family of his deceased wife have been, and are to-day, of the pleasantest and most cordial nature, and that the latter entertained for him a sincere regard. Whatever blame may attach to any one for the secrecy that has been maintained in this affair does not attreb to him. In regard to the alleged denial by Mr. Fish, to a reporter for the New York Sun, of his marriage. I am firmly ef the belief that it was manufactured out of whole cloth, aware as I am of the many interviews with him that have never taken place but that have teen fabricated and printed in dif ferent New York papers since the beginning of his misfortunes, a year since, and especially since his unjust and outrageous conviction. At any rate. his telegram and letter to me ought to suffice to banish any further doubt in regard to the mar-risge of himself and Sallie Reber Laing.

An Itsane Hospital Attendant Committed

for Murder. Norristown, Pa, May 9 .- Alexander Steele, an attendant at the Insane Asylum, was brought before Burgess White this morning, charged with murder. The original commitment was manslaughter in connection with the killing of Theodore Caster, an insane patient in the asylum, who was found dead with a number of his ribs broken. The violence used was such that one of the broken ribs pierced the victim's heart. Williem L. Turnbull, the other attendant accused of killing Caster, was used as a witness. He says he saw Steele brutally kick and beat Caster for leaving his bed and refusing to return. After the beating the witness went to bed and heard the avsault renewed. A few moments later Steele called him, and the prisoner died in his presence. Steele ssked him not to give it away. This request and his fear of Steele prevented his giving this testimony at the Coroner's inquest. Steele was committed for murder and Turnbull held as a witness

PITTSBURG, May 9.-Gilardo. charged with the murder of Fillipo Caruso, left for Chicago this morning in charge of Detective Bonfield. He was confronted by employes of the Union Station to see if they could identify him as the man who had been watching the trunk. They failed to do so It was afterward learned that Gilardo went to New fork from Chicago by way of the Lake Shore Road, and did not pass through this city. Chicago, May 2.—Jurado, the man arrested in New York for alleged complicity in the murder of Fillipo Casuro, arrived here to-night in custody. He declines to talk of the murder, but gives a very accurate description of the trunk in which the body was found as one which he bought sev-

The Late Battle in the Northwest.

TORONTO, May 9. - A cable dispatch to the Globe says the accounts published in the London daily papers concerning the battle between Colonel Otter and the Indians, under Pound Maker, are so very conflicting that in many quarters fears have upon the withdrawal of the Canadian forces from the field of the engagement. It has been suggested from an influential quarter that the Imperial Government act as a mediator between the Dominion Government and the balf breed. An official telegram, issued to day, allays the auxiety to some extent. There is great need of official news being sent here early concerning any important event.
